SCHOOL NEWS

KINDERGARTEN

Our class numbers twenty eight since we haveadded four new members in the last two weeks. The boys out number the girls sixteen to twelve.

We have a lovely new class room this year on the east side of the new school building.

Recently the auxiliary of the Antioch Church sent some money to our teacher to be used for equipment in our room. We have already been able to secure a number of sets of play things with the balance of our blocks and hope to get some other money. Other friends have contribut some rag dolls, wooden and oilcloth dolls and scrap books.

A number of us including our teacher have been sick this month thus pulling down our attendance record. However all of us are well again and happily at work in school.

Each of us are eagerly looking forward to Chrismas when Santa will, in his own nice way ,answer our letters we wrote to him.

We cordially invite every one of you to visit our class between eight and eleven thirty on a school morning not only to see us but to hear us sing and recite scripture passages and secular pieces.

GRADE FIVE

The fifth grade consists of thirteen boys and twenty-two girls—the girls have the advantage in numbers but they aren't able to impose upon the boys by any means.

Lester King represents us on the football team and we are right proud of his achievements.

Mrs. Griers loan of a lovely begonia is giving us a great deal of pleasure and adds much to the appearance of our room.

We have had a great time making health posters this month and from the way mumps and bad colds have pulled down our attendance record it would seem that our interest in rules for "better health" came at an opportune time.

There are more of us among the honor pupils; we trust that this indicates progress.

SEVENTH GRADE

Well, we have come in after all, ni spite of everything. This is not the sixth grade, but the seventh.

In our seventh grade work we have six books to study; our first and best is Bible. We have Bible on Mondays and Thursdays. Mrs. Holton, our teacher gives us the questions and we answer them the next lesson. Our next book that we believe everyone likes, is arithmetic. We are having work in percentage. It is pretty hard for some of us to catch on to but I think we have a good hold on it now. These are the two best books we have and we all like them well. We have music every Wednesday, which our music teacher, Miss Green, teaches us. We have current events every Friday, and in that way we keep up with the things that are going on in our country.

School supplies are not wasted in the Seventh grade, because we use just what we think we need, so there is nothing wasted. We keep our floor clean by keeping every little scrap of paper off of it.

You ought to see our football team. We are proud of every one of our boys. We are all hoping Barium will win the next two games with Belmont Abbey College and the Raleigh Methodist Orphanage.

There are seven Barium-Mites in our room, and they play the Charlotte Mites ,the 27th of this month. We beat the Statesville Mites twice in hard fought battles. We are very proud of both of our teams, the real team and the Mites.

Ned McKay has mumps now, and we miss him at school.

We have thirty-five pupils in this grade and nineteen of them are boys, so why worry?

Harrah! Thanksgiving is almost here and you know we are going to a happy time. We are looking forward to agood dinner on that day at one o'clock.

Wasn't that a grand game our team played Staurday? I'll say it was they won with great honors. Even if Thomasvile was beaten, they played well.

The recital was very good Saturday night. Some of our girls took part in it.

Several of our girls had a nice visit from their mothers. We all enjoyed having them and hope they will soon come again.

Our sidewalk surely is coming in handy. Every afternon there are from two to five girls skating on it. Guess it will soon be over the campus.

As news is scarce we will bid you adieu.

LAUNDRY NEWS

We are now counting the days until Christmas. Although we never go visiting, the holidays mean a great deal to us. The truth of the matter is, very few of us wish to go away, because everybody has a grand time at Christmas. All of you who were ever young know what a thrill there is in peeping (or diving into your stocking Christmas morning, and also in opening boxes and mysterious-looking packages. Santa Claus has always been so good to us that we don't expect anything but something lovely at Christmas, And we hope he doesn't forget to be very generous with all "good" boys and girls this year.

We have just finished our third round of tests, and are still living to tell the tale. That is what surprises us. Funny how quickly these four school weeks pass, but the four weeks between this and Christmas will be twice as long. Will some wise person explain this please?

Those whose birthday comes in November fared sumptuously on turkey and accesseries this month. My! but the table looked inviting. And there was not a bashful person at the table except Mr. Privette and Mr. Lowrance. Probably they were nervous because of the large crowd.

So many of our girls have had colds and sore throat lately. When one thing goes wrong, everything goes wrong. We keep Mr. Grier busy repairing irons and the mangle. The Laundry was closed on Thanksgiving Day. Guess they thought we would not be very thankful if we worked on that day. Sometimes we are inclined to complain, but when we "Count our Blesings" we realize that we have a great deal to be thankful for, and fel glad that we can have this day of Special Thanksgiving for the many blesings of the year.

P. S.—A woman's letter is never complete without a P. S. We are thankful to get our new slippers.

INFIRMARY

Well everything is getting along fine down here. We only have eleven patients now. We have one mump patient. We couldn't do well without one anyway.

Mis Brown, our matron, has gone home on a visit. We hope she will have a good time, and soon come back Ruth, our song bird is still with us. We could not do without her, for she keeps us company all the time.

Something funny happened the other night, Lydia Donaldson, was telling about a dream she had . She started to say she sat downon a davenport but instead of saying it, she said, "I sat down on a tea- set," I am afraid if she would the tea -set would be gone when she would get up.

We had a nice walk down to the couty home Sunday. It was such a lovely ofternoon to walk anyway.

Earlie Mae one of our girls left us about a week ago. We all hope she will have a good time in her new home.

There is not but three girls down here now. It keeps us busy when we have so many patients.

We have three new children last week. We all hope that they will be be happy with us.

Mrs. Hostetler has come back to live with us. We are glad that she is liking it at the infirmary.

I think everybody is looking forward to Christmas.

Thanksgiving Makes a Difference

For lack of space we will not be able to publish all the receipts up to December 1st., but a glance at this table will show you that something is happening. More than double the amount received in any other month this year was received in November and this came in the last week. Winston-Salem Presbytery led all others in total amount contributed, in per capita contributions, and one Church, Winston-Salem First, has sent in the largest Thanksgiving offering so far the amount being $2,000.00. The Men's Bible Class of Greensboro First sent in $1,000.00, the largest contribution from any organization other than the whole Church.

If these contributions are an indication of the whole Thanksgiving offering, we may look forward to the best yet.

Next month's Messenger will carry every item in the publication of receipts and it should be interesting.

RUMPLE HALL

We always have something to look forward to here. We are now thinking about our big Thanksgiving dinner which we enjoy every year. That is made possible by our good friends. Too, we are to have a birthday dinner this month.

But, Oh! think Christmas is not far around the corner either when Santa Claus will visit all. Then is when we have a good time.

We have a new matron, Miss Sarah Overman. We like her fine. We hated to give up Miss Alexander because we liked her very much, but we know we will like Miss Overman just as well. We have found out already she likes a clean house and we know we are going to keep our Banner for best housekeeping.

Maud Hall and Naomi Crook are up from the Infirmary. We are glad to have them back. They make the crowd a little more jolly.

Alice Yarborough and Virginia Edwards started out of the dining room the other day with some nice buttered toast for the cats. They told Miss Overman, but the cats didn't get any of it. They were found with it in their room, melting the butter on the radiator so they could eat it. And the poor cats got none—neither did they.

We are expecting a new church some time. We need it very much, as ours is entirely too small to hold all of us.

We are proud of our big boys. They are winning nearly all of the football games this year.

We cannot think of any more news so we will close. Written by the

ADVISABLE

A contest recently was conducted by a soap and perfume manufacturer for an advertising slogan, and among the slogans submitted was the following:

"If you don't use our soap, for Heaven's sake use our perfume."

—Frisco Emps. Magazine.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Well here we are again trying to scrape up some news.

Just think there isn't but two weeks until Thanksgiving and all of us should be thankful for all the nice things we have had since last time.

We are so glad to have Irene and Sarah Fort to live with us now. Irene has had her hair bobbed and she looks quite cute and more like the rest of the girls.

We miss Nina Bobbitt and Bessie Kennedy because they have gone to Howard Cottage.

Charlie Rob Coxwell had her tonsils removed.

Yesterday some people from Concord came to visit our cottage. We hope they thought it looked nice.

Clothing boxes are coming in just as if it was Christmas.

The weather is mighty cold, and the wind is blowing the leaves into the drains and it keeps us busy.

We haven't any more news so we will close for this time.

HELEN BROWN

———P.O.H.———

HOWARD COTTAGE

We are glad that we have a cement sidewalk from one school building to the other. And we hope that we will soon have one down our way too so we can skate on it.

We are looking forward to the Thanksgiving dinner and what a good time we will have.

Mrs. Lee of Dunn visited her daughter Maggie for the week end.

Some of our girls have been down at the Infirmary with the mumps, but are back and going to school now. Alberta Wadesworth took mumps this moring and we are afraid that she will not be up in time for the Thanksgiving dinner.

———P.O.H.———

BABY COTTAGE

Hello folks its about Thanksgiving. The babies are all expecting some cake.

We have several new children, John and Alpha Mae Ellis, and P. C. Miller.

We will soon have a basket ball team over here we have seventeen boys now in our family. They have grown since we wrote our news last time.

We all thank Mrs. George French of Charlotte for the black cat she sent us but it must be afraid that it will scare the children for it refuses to hold the door open.

The other day they were talking about Christmas. John Cole: If you aren't sleep when Santa Claus comes he wont give you anything.

Walter: Yes and if you are awake he'll put pepper in your eyes too.

Jack and Tom the twins, have been at the infirmary for some time. We sure do miss them and hope they will soon be back.

We miss Sunshine too she has just gone down there.

Eloise, one of the big girls has had her tonsils removed but she is back now.

These cold days when we can't go out side with the babies, we tell stories sing and recite things they have learned in school.

Although Katherine has not started to school, she is trying to teach us some new steps in the Charleston.

We have a new matron, Mrs. Herman we enjoy having her very much.

As news is scarce we will close.

LOUISE and AVIS.

LOTTIE WALKER
First Floor

Basketball! basketball! is all we hear from morning till night. The girls have at last starting practing. This year we will not have to practice out of doors for we have a grand court indoors. We sure are proud of it and hope to win all the games we can.

Just think we have a sidewalk now. Anyone who has had any experience in walking in the mud sure knows how to appreciate a sidewalk, as we do. We are making use of it too, as rink and we will soon be champions skaters if we keep on.

We are all loking fowward to our football game with Thomasville. They say that they are coming down to beat us but if they know our boys as we do, they will think a different way.

Miss Green will give her first music recital Saturday night. We know we will enjoy it.

Several of the girls went to Mooresville to sing last. night.

Birthday dinner tomorrow. Thanksgiving an that means turkey for this bunch.

Mr. Johnston has been away for several days but has returned and we are always glad for we miss him.

I guess this is enough for this month, but just wait until next month and we will have pleanty of news.

THE CAMPUS GROUP

THIS month we are writing again about a group of boys. Next month we will write about the laundry, a department of the girls.

In January we will take either the dining room or the kitchen. They are two tremendous departments and we think about them more in the winter time.

The Campus Group, under Mr. T.C. Cavin, started out in a rather small way. Their duties were to look after the trees and the shrubbery on the campus, to build and keep up the walks, fences and the carpenter work, etc. Mr. Cavin has made this one of the most important departments on the whole place It's due to his efforts that the appearance of the lawn and the campus in general is constantly improving. Not satisfied with standing still and merely holding what we had he has worked for improvement and the favorable comment of visitors and people passing through are due to his successful efforts. As the sewing room is in a way responsidle for the outward appearance of the children, so Mr. Cavin and his busy bunch are responsible for the outward appearance of the place. That is the first thing a visitor sees, and their first impressions are made on what they see first. Therefore, this job of keeping the campus and buildings up to their present fine appearance is a tremendous responsibility.

The picture shown on this page is the summer time group and is nothing like as large as the group now is. Mr. Cavin the boss, is shown in the middle of the back. His chief assistant carpenter, Mr. Nesbit, is also shown to his left. They are the only two in the picture with their hats on.

Last year this group set out several hundred water oaks along the highway and the principal drives over the campus. About half of these trees lived. They are already making a difference in the appearance of the grounds. This year they are putting down concrete sidewalks. When this is written they are just finishing a walkway extending from the old school building to the new school building. This goes by the Church, the Office, Mr. O'Kelly's residence and the Lottie Walker building, and extends on the south side to both underpasses. As soon as this is completed they will build a side walk from Synod's Cottage to Annie Louise. This, of course runs by Rumple Hall, and will be a big help this winter in getting the little Chaps from their cottages into the dining room with dry feet.

During the past year, a new school building has been erected and the Campus Group have graded the land around this and sowed it in grass, and what was a few months ago, a rough unattractive piece of ground, is now a beautiful smooth lawn in front of this building. In addition to all this work enumerated, this group does all the concrete work whether in new buildings or regular work. They have built a corn crib, several sheds about the dairy and a fattening pen for the hogs. This last named place is fixed up so nice, some one suggested putting in a mirrow with a comb and brush and tooth brush rack for the pigs to do their morning toilet before.

Also, whenever there is a rush order on the farm like making hay or harvesting wheat they have a habit of calling on Mr. Cavin's group for help.

Sometimes when the dairy feed comes in faster than the dairy crowd can handle it, they call on Mr. Cavin for a lift. This rather new department is already an invaluable one. When we think of the number of things that these boys do, we wonder how in the world we ever did without them, because this department has only been established a little more than a year.

All of the jobs mentioned are dry weather jobs. In wet weather this group does indoor work. A sort of workshop is fitted up in the basement of the school building and when the weather is too bad to work outdoors, they make flower boxes, hat racks, teachers' desk and a hundred of other things that are always in demand. This workshop is in the wrong place and poorly equipped. It should be in Alexander building which was originally built for this purpose, but is now the makeshift home for 38 boys. We don't want this group confused with Mr. Grier's group, which looks after the plumbing, electricity, water and all the machinery on the place. We are writing them up in a later issue. At one time, a good many years ago when Barium Springs was smaller, the two groups were one, but now each has more to do than the combined groups used to have.

We sincerely hope that before another year has passed that we will have a new dormitory for the Alexander boys so this group and Mr. Grier can again come into their own. When this happens many an article that now has to be bought will then be made by these splendid groups and the boys will in addition be learning useful trades.

EXCHANGES and Wheezes

A dear old churchgoer, obliged to remain in a certain town over Sunday, started out to attend service in one of the churches of his own faith; but losing his way, and seeing an open church door just across the street, he entered, not knowing to what creed the congregation held. As the service progressed, his religious emotions waxed warmer, until finally he gave vent to them by shouting out, "Praise God!"

Immediately one of the ushers tapped him on the shoulder and said: "You can't do that in this church, sir."

An inquisitive and curious neighbor woman had tried all means to find out how much rent the woman next door paid.

One day she met the woman's small son; seizing the opportunity by the horns she said: "That certainly is a nice flat you folks live in, Thomas!"

"Yes, mam."

"How much does the landlord ask your mother for rent."

"He asks quite a lot."

"Haven't you any idea how much he asks?"

"Well, he asked three times last month."

Binks: "Where's the best place to hold the World's Fair?"

Jinks: "Round the waist."—Exchange.

Stories of absent-mindedness were being related in the smoking room of a transatlantic liner.

"I am very absent-minded myself," said a hitherto silent man. "I often find names and telephone numbers written in my notebook, but can't remember what persons they represent. Lately I had a general checking up. The name and address of one man baffled me, so I wrote to him asking if he had ever heard of me and if I was supposed to do something for him. He wrote back a cordial, almost an affectionate letter, saying I had already done it. He was my wife's first husband.

Judge—Then the two women had an epistolary dispute.

Witness—No pistols at all about it, sah. Dey jes' writ a lot o' mean things to one anothah.

"Do you understand the nature of an oath, madam?" asked the attorney of the fair witnes.

"I'll tell the world I do! I married a sailor," was the emphatic response. The C. & O. and Hocking Valley.

The Unusual Request

Salesman (wiping the perspiration from his brow): "I'm afraid, madam, we've shown you all our stock of linoleum, but we could get more from our factory."

Customer: "Well, perhaps you had better!! You see, I want something of a neater pattern and quite small—just want a little square for my birdcage!"

CAMPUS NEWS

Since the "Senate" (this is what the babies call Synod) was in session in Statesville during October, war has been declared on Turkey.

And a rabbit can have a home round about here for the asking—if rabbit-gums are noteworthy of interest.

Any how, we hope so, for this will prove a solace to us, as we lost a fish supper bet on the Carolina-Davidson game. And rabbit is so cheap, you know?

And still the forethought of Christmas waxing in our bones already. All the more reason every dark cloud has a silver lining.

1 But what's that got to do with a fellow whose toe is six inches through his stocking?

The campus group have established a "wall flower" reputation in that they have made possible a mecca for roller skating—viz: a concrete sidewalk from the old to new school building. Let the good work go on Mr. Cavin, until the campus boundaries extend back of Alexander.

"So you're lost, little man? Why didn't you hang onto your mother's skirt?"

Youngster: "Couldn't reach it."

Literary Aspirants

What can't Barium Springs High School do? Already this fall, the "Messenger" has sung praises of the football team, and now modestly, it announces claimants of recognition in another field. Only those who have scratched the pen of literary ambition can appreciate the following compositions, though it is hoped others will enjoy them. To such this column is respectfully dedicated.

Ten Years Hence

As I look back over the last ten years of my life, I do not regret having spent them as I did. Although I made many mistakes, some of these could not have been helped, and others have taught me many a lesson that otherwise I would not know today.

In the year of 1930 I became a graduate of Barium Springs, N. C., and in the spring of the same year left there for Greensboro. After spending the summer in Marion, Virginia, with my aunt and uncle, I decided to go to work. I took a business course for six months and then applied for a position as secretary of Mr. Ernest Irving, a noted lawyer of Raleigh, N. C.

Not very long after I started working for Mr. Irving, his private secretary, Miss Beasely, decided to give up her place and go to stay with her invalid mother. She informed Mr. Irving about two months ahead of time that she was going to leave in order to enable him to find someone who was capable of taking her place. Mr. Irving told her to keep an eye open for someone and that he would do the same.

One day just before noon Mr. Irving came to me and said, "Miss Cable, I would like to see you in my private office just before you leave this afternoon."

"All right, Mr. Irving," I replied.

All that afternoon I was rather nervous because Mr. Irving had just fired one of his employees that morning and I didn't know that that wasn't what he wanted with me.

"Now what in the world have I done?" I asked Miss Boggs.

"Nothing that I know of," she informed me, "but you had better be careful because the boss has been all off today."

When I entered Mr. Irving's private office, I was rather surprised to see him smiling instead of frowning.

"Miss Cable," he said, "I just wish to inform you that Miss Beasely, my private secretary, is leaving in a few days and you are to take her place.

"Surely you don't mean that!" was my surprised reply."

"Indeed I do," he calmly answered. "I have been watching your work for quite awhile and have noticed much improvement, but that doesn't mean that you haven't been doing well all along because you have, and I know that you are able to fill Miss Beasely's place as well or better than she did."

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Irving," I cried, "I hope to show you that I am capable of filling her place as well or even better than you think I can."

I left the room with a smile on my face, knowing that I had become what I had always wanted to be, a private secretary.

That was three years ago and each year I have become more interested in my work and have been successful so far. I am now on my vacation in Europe and can enjoy a happy trip because I know that I have had a successful year.—ELIZABETH CABLE —'30.

Ten Years Hence

Ten years ago I was a "Freshman" in High School at Barium Springs, and today I am a private secretary for a fine lawyer.

One day he called me into his office and said, "Miss Freeman, where did you go to school?"

I told him, and when he found out that I stayed at Barium five years he wanted to know more about the place.

"Who was the superintendent when you left?" he asked.

"Mr. Johnston," I replied.

Then he asked me many questions about him and the school.

One day as I was going home from work, I saw a man who looked very familiar, coming down the sidewalk. When he caught up with me, he said, "Well! if it isn't Ruth Freeman. I can't believe my own eyes."

"I beg your pardon," I replied. "I do not know you."

"Know me! Why of course you know me."

I began to think; then I asked, "Who are you?"

"J. B. Johnston from Barium Springs."

This shocked me all over.

"Where are you working, Ruth?" he asked.

"For Mr. Blake, one of the lawyers here in Los Angeles."

"I have heard a great deal about him," Mr. Johnston said. "What is your salary?"

"Fifty dollars a week," I told him.

"That is very good. I will drop in to see you tomorrow," he said.

"All right, I will be glad to have you."

One evening about dusk, I was riding out in the country with some of my best friends, when a car ran into us and knocked us over the embankment. I was the only one who was not badly injured.

I ran up the bank to the street and flagged a big car. When it stopped, I saw that it was my employer, Mr. Blake.

When he came near me, he said, "What is the matter Miss Freeman?" and I told him of the accident which had just occurred.

"I am very grateful that your life has been spared, for I never would have found another like you."

"I thank you very much for your kind words," I answered.

The next day Mr. Blake came to my desk and said, "Ruth, I am going to raise your salary ten dollars for trying to get your friends to a hospital."

"I thank you," I said.

I have saved enough money to send my brother to college and am now married to Robert Blake. We went around the world on our honeymoon and have been enjoying life greatly. I don't know whether I shall work or sit around, but think I shall continu my work. RUTH FREEMAN, '30.

Philip Derdyne

"O, Philip, my lad, you've been gambling again,
And it's liquor I smell on your breath;
I fear you've been out with those ruffian men,
And that it will mean your death."

"Yes, mother, I've been on a spree,
And it's the worst I've ever got in;
The last of your jewels may settle the fee,
But 'tis too late to repent o' my sin."

"O, Philip, my lad, your lips have turned white;
'Tis poison ye have drunk for a wine;
Lie down on this couch and tell me aright,
Cared you naught for your Mother Derdyne?"

'O, mother, God knows I've loved you alway,
Though I've hurt you and brought you disgrace.
But now sing me a verse of 'Life's Closing Day,'
For no longer can I see your sweet face!"

The Power of A Song

"Hello, Old Top! What are you doing here?"

There was a note of surprised pleasure in the speaker's voice as he looked at his companion.

"I beg your pardon, were you speaking to me?"

"What's the joke, Donald? You act as if you've never seen me before."

'I fear you have made a mistake; my name is Philip Blain."

"Well you surely do look like Donald Bently. He was my best pal in college and naturally I thought you were he. Can you tell me where Blain and Lake Co. is?"

"Certainly, I'm the president of it. Hop in my car and I'll drive you down there."

"Good! You're just the man I'm looking for. Florence sent me down here to help you check up on those files you wrote him about. Craig McLean is my name."

"That's dandy! We'll start early and will soon be through."

As they were running along, Craig began humming a song and Philip said, "I've heard that before; where was it?"

"Why," answered Craig, "We used to sing that all the time at College."

"Well I know you! Don't you remember how we used to sing it during our senior year? You, Fred, Lem and I."

"Do you mean to say you are Donald Bently?" Craig roared.

"I am. I'll tell you all about it if you wish."

"Go ahead!" said Craig.

"Well, about three years ago I was in a car accident and had my head injured. When I recovered, I couldn't remember a thing that had happened before that event. I couldn't even think of my name; so I made up another one. That song you were singing struct some cord in my memory and brought everything back to me. Gee! I feel like celebrating."

"Well, why don't you?"

"All right, I will. Let's sing Gee! I'd give the world to see that Old Gang of mine."

Hope

The old gray Nunnery of Montreal, on the cliffs of the St. Lawrence River, looked dark and forbidding in the dusk of the evening. Yet one thing appeared bright about the place. On the balcony, overlooking the river, stood a young woman of not more than thirty years. She turned her face toward the south and gazed long at the horizon. Not a word escaped her lips, yet a smile broke out upon her face as she looked. After a few minutes of reverie, she turned and made her way toward the building. She had been dreaming of her sweetheart who was far away in the southland.

At a certain army encampment in Virginia a young soldier had just returned from duty on guard. He was a good looking man of less than thirty-five. As he now walked toward his tent, he lifted his head and turned it toward the north. He too was thinking—thinking of his sweetheart in the gray nunnery at Montreal. He knew she was looking south and thinking of him at this time. How long would it be, he wondered, before she could get out of that place and he out of the army? Though he didn't know it now, she had already been released from her vows.

Fifteen years ago they had met and become engaged in New Bedford, Massachusettes. Then some thing had happened—a misunderstanding perhaps—and both had entered the service of society; she as a nun, and he as a soldier.

Now soon they were to see each other again, and who denies that on this evening both man and maid whispered simultaneously to the same star the same wish? JACK MacKAY, '28

In all your years of college work and play
You'll find a chance to cheer a lonely heart.
It may take tme and thought—and money too,
But think of others; not yourself always. —M. MOSELEY.

CAMPUS GROUP

Well we are still on the job and are doing some fine work such as laying a concrete walk. Mr. Cavin is bossing the job and we are about through now. Everybody will be glad when it is finished so they can skate on it.

William Perry is the champion sweeper of the campus group, it takes him all morning to clean the underpasses.

Work is getting harder on the campus group, even the mules hollow when the bell rings.

Joe Keenan is progressive in his work he drives his finger into a plank instead of the nail.

We have been cutting down trees for the last few days so we can run the walk through.

We sure do appreciate the way everybody has been keeping off the cement when it is soft.

Mr. Nesbit is the repair man, he repairs every thing you bring over there if you do not bring too many chairs or what ever it may be.

We have a pretty good place for the winter in the basement of the school building.

The cement mixer is running good: it runs like Joe Keenan's mouth.

We are hauling the dirt between the church and school and Mr. Cavin is going to have it leveled down and plant flowers around the church. We also hope to get the yards looking good.

Hope we have more news next time.

Evidently Their Consciences Were Their Guides

A preacher said to his congregation: "There is a certain man among us who is flirting with another man's wife. Unless he puts five dollars in the collection box his name will be read from the pulpit."

When the box came in there were nineteen five dollar bills in it and a two dollar bill with a note pinned to it, saying: "This is all the cash I have, but will send the other three dollars Wednesday."—Trumbull Cheer

SYNOD COTTAGE

Thanksgiving brought many visiting mothers to Synods Cottage. Mrs. Starling spent a few days with Billy.

Mrs. McCrimrion came from Lenior Saturday to see Hugh and John Cole.

Friends and relatives came on Sunday to see Jack Helms.

And for three days Alexander Edwards aunt Miss McMillan visited him.

Miss McMillan was on her way to John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, to do Post-graduate work in nursing.

Billy Martins mother spent Thanksgiving day with him.

Miss Steel and Miss Moore spent Monday in Charlotte.

While there they had a message by radio from Santa which will be good news to one of the cottages Christmas day.

—P.O.H.—

"If you know how to eat
and you know how to drink—
If you know how to play and know how to think—
If you know how to take and know how to give—
You'll know how to die
'Cause you know how to live!"

—BID.
